

Instead creating more seats lower the number by re designating the boundaries. In today's high tech and available transportation increase the size of the riding to 50,000 (thus making the MLA's work for a living). Besides the money saved (the government always looking at cost cutting as health care and education) will help balancing the budget. Reducing cost should at the base--less MLA's and bureaucracy (isn't that what Stelmach and Klein before have preached--less and smaller government in Albertans lives) is a good start!!!
