Concerning the Electoral Boundaries Commission:

It is vital to serve democracy in the best way possible and one step towards that is to work towards one man (woman)-one vote. Thus every effort is required to ensure that a balance is worked out. The favoritism towards rural areas in that respect is prejudicial although understandable given the need for the existing government to ensure they keep control. What with the use of internet availability, information is equally accessible no matter where one lives in the province so "area" is no longer a major concern as a sitting member can readily communicate with their geographical area.
